Holiday Extras specialise in providing hotel breaks combined with a London show or a visit to a theme park and have some amazing offers.

Holiday Extras also offer a selection of add-ons to London theatre breaks, ranging from Afternoon Tea at Fortnum and Mason to a Jack the Ripper Tour. Adding London attractions allows customers to tailor their break to suit their needs and tastes. Whether they want to gear the weekend towards the kids with a trip to Madame Tussaud's or take a romantic river cruise with dinner, adding on London attractions is a great way of enjoying the city to the full. A whole host of attractions are available including flights on the London Eye, Afternoon Tea at the elegant Fortnum and Mason or a trip to the Tower of London. Pre-theatre dinners are also available to add from £12.50 per person at some top London restaurants.

Theatre by Rail has recently been launched and provides customers with a convenient way of avoiding the traffic when going to see a London show. Theatregoers can book a rail ticket to and from London, theatre tickets and a hotel stay all for one low price. It is possible to make a saving of up to 40 percent on train fare when booking this package, as opposed to booking train tickets separately. Customers can travel at any time of the day, as there are no time restrictions on the tickets see the Holiday Extras website

Holiday Extras also offer attractions outside of London. A wide range of Theme Park breaks are available, with tickets and a family hotel stay available as a package deal. Theme parks on offer include Alton Towers, Legoland Windsor and Pleasure Beach Blackpool. To book the theme park and hotel visit the Holiday Extras website.

Holiday Extras was founded in 1983 and has remained the market leader for holiday add-ons. The website was launched in 2000, and since then it has grown to offer a wide range of services from airport and hotel parking to theatre and theme park breaks at the best prices.
